

Greater San Antonio Quilt Show - Winner!

The Greater San Antonio Quilt Show was this past weekend, Sept 22nd & 23rd. I entered two quilts, and it turned out really well! I was floored. Both quilts are designed and quilted by yours truly.

Salute to Texas

2017 Quilt Show

September 22-23, 2017

Friday 9 am - 6 pm

Saturday 9 am - 5 pm

Admission: Adults $8 Two Day Pass $15

Students (with ID) $6 Two Day Pass $10

San Antonio Event Center

410 W & Marbach

Each quilt has a previously authored blog posts when they were created. I'll link them for you.

**Platinum Garden**, whole cloth quilt, made with inexpensive satin and polyester components, placed 2nd in its show category, which was "Other/Miscellaneous." Sorry for the blur; I was excited to snap the picture.

My big ole bed-size Scrappy Circles quilt placed Honorable Mention in the "Scrap Quilt" show category.

See the little red and pink embroidered boots pinned to each quilt? The quilter takes those off to wear them around the show. Pretty clever, even if I learned about them in the last 1-1/2 hour of the show.

Holy smokes! I'm definitely going to try to do that again. I should start planning the next quilt/s now.

Thank you for indulging me. The blog is a place to share patterns, quilting ideas, and general design ideas, but I also like to catalog my work & achievements here, too.